The image shows a screenshot of an email from Eventbrite. At the top, the Eventbrite logo is displayed in orange. Below the logo, the word "Hello," is followed by a greyed-out name field. The main content of the email is centered and reads: "Follow this link to log in to your account. For your security, this link can only be used once and expires after 15 minutes." Below this text is a red "Log in" button, which is highlighted with a red rectangular box and a red arrow pointing to it from the right. Underneath the button, there are three sections of text: "Why did I get this link?" followed by "Someone asked for a login link to log in to Eventbrite with this email.", "If this wasn't you, log in to your account and update your password.", and "Secure your account" followed by "Use a strong, unique password. You've probably heard this before, but a password that is a combination of letters, numbers, and special characters is strongest."
